Packing heavy? We've got your back!

Fly without baggage worries. Pay an additional fee to carry all your baggage, be it heavy or larger than allowed, in both our international and domestic sectors. If your baggage exceeds the weight limit from the baggage allowance mentioned on your ticket, you will be charged a fee for the excess baggage.

Wondering about the fee for excess baggage? Take control and calculate the charges ahead of time with our easy-to-use baggage calculator.

Pay for your excess baggage in advance and save up to *20%

Make the most of our prepaid baggage offer to escape last-minute airport dashes!

Any additional weight carried by guests beyond the allotted Free Baggage Allowance (FBA) is considered excess baggage. Save up to *20% by prepaying for your excess baggage compared to airport charges.

Eligibility

- You can prepay for extra baggage (additional bags or total weight beyond the standard allowance) up to 2 hours before departure.
- For a single bag over the weight limit, you can buy extra allowance up to 32 kg until 6 hours before your flight.
- Guests holding a valid e-ticket starting with the number 098 can use this offer for all Air India flights (except interline and codeshare flights).

Piece concept

If your ticket's baggage allowance is piece-based (known as piece concept), you will be charged for any additional piece beyond the allowance specified in your ticket. Each piece has a weight allowance of 23 kg/ 50 lb beyond which you will be charged for overweight pieces. Each bag can't weigh more than 32 kg/ 70 lb.

Baggage charges for additional pieces (0-23 kg)/ (0-50 lb)

Baggage charges for overweight pieces (23-32 kg/ 50-70 lb per piece)

At the airport charges for oversized baggage

If your baggage exceeds the total size and weight limit dimensions, you'll be charged an oversized baggage handling fee.

Baggage exceeding the permitted dimension of 158 cm/ 62 in (length + breadth + height) is considered oversize baggage and is subject to additional charges per bag or piece.
